

TERRITORIES

Introduction

Those interested in the evolution of the political system in the North-West Territories in the period 1876-1905, leading to the achievement of responsible government in 1897, and the establishment of the Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta in 1905, should find this directory of value. For a detailed description of this evolution the reader is referred to L.H. Thomas's The Struggle for Responsible Government in the North-West Territories, 1870-1897, (2nd ed. Toronto, 1978), and C.C. Lindgard's Territorial Government in Canada: The Autonomy Question in the Old North-West Territories (Toronto, 1946).

The information contained in this directory comes from a variety of sources. In the absence of official election returns, the Canadian Parliamentary Companion and the Parliamentary Guide are the only comprehensive sources of information available on election results. While, in some instances, the vote totals may be imprecise they are the most reliable available. The aforementioned publications are also the primary source of birth dates of the individuals cited in the directory. Every effort has been made to determine dates of death by searching newspapers, and by contacting appropriate individuals and institutions for information.

The bulk of the information in the directory comes from a number of official government documents such as the Journals of the North-West Council, the Journals of the Legislative Assembly of the North-West Territories, the North-West Territories Gazette, and orders-in-council.
